ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I would like to thank; the respondents who were interested in what I was trying to achieve. They gave a significant amount of time, collectively, but also thanks are due for their trust in me. I contracted to listen properly to stories of their private lives and to represent them in as close a way to their own perceptions as I could. I would also like to express my personal admiration for all of them and their lovely families.

Enormous thanks to Catherine Donovan for supervision, guidance and knowledge of this field. Even more thanks for putting yourself beside me with this project and for encouraging me to return to this after a long absence. Thanks to Anne Charnock who agreed to be second supervisor for a period, Liz Williams for earlier proof reading.

Various colleagues and friends read drafts and these included; Julie Matthews, Cherrie Stubbs, Nicola Groves and Nicola Sugden. Finally thanks to Marion England who proof read the final draft. I would like to thank them for their time and to say I appreciated their valuable comments.
